

Cuba: Anthropology in Santiago de Cuba & Havana June 2015

Program Goals

Join the Department of Anthropology on an exciting study abroad program to Santiago de Cuba and Havana, the two largest cities in the Caribbean island country. The three week-long program will focus on Cuban historical, social, and cultural realities in Cuba and its neighboring countries. Participants will document their travel in order to understand the complexity of the Cuban identity, history, and culture. Participants will work with the Medical School in Santiago de Cuba and Martires de Giron Medical School in Havana. As part of the program participants will hear from contributing faculty from the medical schools and other academic institutions, as well as visit historical sites in both cities.

---

Academics

ANT 3550 (FC) (Undergraduate)
Cultures & Societies of Latin America
3 Credits

ANT 6290 (Graduate & Undergraduate)
Culture Area Studies
3-6 Credits

All reading assignments will be announced in class. Pre-trip meetings will be held up to the start of the program. The meetings will include an Introduction to Elementary Spanish in order to ease local communication in Cuba.

---

Costs

$2,500 for WSU-students or $4,500 for non-WSU students, which includes roundtrip airfare, accommodation, daily breakfast, group transfers, walking and driving tours, international health insurance, and administrative fees.

Excludes $28 USD Cuban airport departure fee, lunch, dinner, other meals, personal expenses, passport processing fees, and tuition.

